CONDITIONS OF SALE.

- I. The highest bidder to be the buyer ; and if any dispute arise between bidders, the lot so disputed shall be immediately put up again, provided the auctioneer cannot decide the said dispute.
 - II. No person to advance less than 1s. ; above five pounds 2s. 6d., and so on in proportion.
 - III. In the case of lots upon which there is a reserve, the auctioneer shall have the right to bid on behalf of the seller.
 - IV. The purchasers to give in their names and places of abode, and to pay down 10s. in the pound, if required, in part payment of the purchase-money ; in default of which the lot or lots purchased will be immediately put up again and re-sold.
 - V. The sale of any lot is not to be set aside on account of any error in the enumeration of the numbers stated, or errors of description.
 - VI. The lots to be taken away, at the buyer's expense, immediately after the conclusion of the sale ; in default of which Messrs. SOTHEBY, WILKINSON & HODGE will not hold themselves responsible if lost, stolen, damaged, or otherwise destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser. If, at the expiration of Two Days after the conclusion of the sale, the lots are not cleared or paid for, they will then be catalogued for immediate sale, and the expense, the same as if re-sold, will be added to the amount at which they were bought. Messrs. SOTHEBY, WILKINSON & HODGE will have the option of re-selling the lots uncleared, either by public or private sale, without any notice being given to the defaulter.
 - VII. Upon failure of complying with the above conditions, the money required and deposited in part of payment shall be forfeited, and if any loss is sustained in the re-selling of such lots as are not cleared or paid for, all charges on such re-sale shall be made good by the defaulters at this sale.

LOT 1.

AGNA CHARTA. A Contemporary copy of this famous Charter, written by an English scribe on a strip of vellum, $25\frac{1}{4}$ in. long by 5 in. wide. The text occupies $23\frac{1}{4}$ in. of the recto and 12 in. of the verso. Some small lacunae occur at the beginning, resulting from slight damage sustained apparently at an early period. The writing is the square official hand found in similar documents (A.D. 1220-1230). A careful collation with the transcript of an original copy of the Charter, in Lincoln Cathedral, discloses a very considerable number of textual variations, interesting, but of small moment except in the matter of the date, which in this copy is given as the 16th of June instead of the 15th as in all others (see Mr. J. E. Hodgkin's "Rariora," p. 26). This important document is accompanied by several Facsimiles and MS. Notes

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 2 INNOCENT IV. Papal Bull, on parchment, dated from Lyons, Dec. 6, 1247, addressed to the Government, Council and People of Genoa, granting them, in answer to their petition, the prohibition of any Patriarch, Archbishop, etc., from afflicting with ecclesiastical penalties the subjects of the Republic of Genoa, with the original leaden bulla and silks (detached)
- 3 EDWARD III. Original Grant of Edward III to the Counties of Brabant and Flanders of certain privileges for the assurance of Commerce, 1340, on vellum, with remains of seals
 Edward's intention in making this treaty was to bring Flanders in closer alliance with England in his contest with Philip VI of France.
- 4 EDWARD III. Original Draft Marriage Settlement, Mar. 14, 1347, of Louis, Count of Flanders, conferring a sum of 10,000 livres per annum upon Isabella, daughter of Edward III, whom, as she thought, he was about to marry, on vellum, with beautifully drawn capital in pen-and ink
- 5 EDWARD III. Treaty of Alliance made between Edward III and Louis, Earl of Flanders, against the King of France, Oct. 11, 1348, in which are mentioned, among other matters, the pretensions of the Earl of Flanders against Lille, Douay, etc., on vellum, with privy seal of Edward III in fine preservation
- 6 EDWARD III. Original Letter of Edward III to Robert, son of the Earl of Flanders, informing him that the Truce between England and France was prolonged for one year by the interposition of the Pope, on vellum, dated December 1st, 1354
- 7 JOHN II (King of France), called le Bon. Original Letter on vellum, dated Sept. 28, 1356, from the Members of the Royal Council at Paris to the Provosts, etc., of Albi, instructing them to send Deputies to the Duke of Normandy to take measures for the safety of the Kingdom, announcing the defeat at Poitiers, and the capture of the King by the English, part of seal, showing fleurs de lys:
... et finalement s'avanca tant nostre dit seigneur de jour et de nuit qu'il a consult le dit prince de Galles aupres Poictiers et le XIX^e jour de cest mois de septembre fu la bataille en laquelle nostre dit seigneur se combatte en sa personne si très vaillement et si hardiment comme fist oncques prince et comme peut homme faire et toute voces par adverse fortune ses ennemis gaignèrent le champ et fu nostre seigneur pris, etc.

- 8 EDWARD III. Original Draft on vellum, drawn up by the Ambassador of Edward III and the Earl of Flanders, for the Treaty of Marriage between Edmond de Langley, Duke of York, son of Edward III and Margaret, Duchess of Burgundy, daughter of Louis, Earl of Flanders, dated Sept. 7, 1364
- 9 EDWARD III. Original Letter on vellum, from Edward III to Louis, Earl of Flanders, making definite arrangements for the signing of a Treaty of Alliance between them on the Feast of Ascension next ensuing, dated Sept. 6, 1367
 * * The Treaty was duly signed on the eve of this Feast.*
- 10 LONDON. Original Letter from the Mayor and Aldermen of London to Louis de Male, Count of Flanders, on the subject of squabbles between English and French seamen, dated Sept. 28 (1367), on paper with water-mark of a bull, remains of seal
- 11 EDWARD III. Original Letter of Edward III to the Court of Flanders respecting certain Flemish ships having been detained in the English Ports, on vellum, dated Westminster, Oct. 1, 1367
- 12 EDWARD III. Grant of Restitution by Edward III to the Abbot of Seez of the Abbey lands in Essex, seized by Edward in the French war, on vellum, July 6, 1372; Indentures between Edward III and George Felbrig, firmary of the Priory of Tofter, an alien priory in Norfolk, restoring to the Priory its lands in Warwickshire, Berks. and Dorset, on vellum, 1375 (2)
- 13 BARDOULPH (William) Governor of Calais, A. L. s. (in French), 1 p. folio, a Caleys le xx jour de Septembre (1410), to the Count de Chaireloys, Governor of Flanders and Artois, touching the prolongation of the Truce between the King of England (Henry IV) and the Duke of Burgundy, a remarkably fine and early specimen of a letter on paper
- 14 TREATIES OF COMMERCE. Document on vellum, Treaty of Commerce between England and Flanders, Feb. 2, 1415, with privy seal of Henry V (imperfect); Agreement, on vellum, between Henry V's Commissioners and those of the Duke of Burgundy in the affairs of Commerce at Calais, October 12, 1416, with 4 beautiful seals (2)
- 15 RICHARD (Duke of York) Contemporary Copy, on vellum, of the Oath of Allegiance and Fealty to Henry VI, taken in St. Paul's Cathedral by Richard, third Duke of York, March 10th, 1452. A Document of the highest possible interest, differing in divers minute particulars

- from the text of the copy of the same Oath on the Parliament Roll 38 Hen. VI, and from the text of the Oath in Holinshed's Chronicles.—LETTER, on vellum, from Guillaume Breton, Knight Baillie of Caen, to the Viscount of Falaise, asking him to bring to Caen an Englishman, now a prisoner at Falaise, Jan. 20, 1428; and another (3)
- 16 HENRY VI. Royal Sign Manual, "H. R." in monogram, on a Grant of Arms (in English) to Thomas Elys gentleman, by William Hawkeslowe, "otherwyse called Clareneuse King of Armes of the South marches of Englande," on vellum, dated 1470, with a beautifully illuminated initial and emblazoned coat of arms
- * * * It is unnecessary to point out THE EXTREME RARITY of the signature of Henry VI. Only very few exist outside the State Records. See an elaborate note by Mr. Hodgkin respecting its source and authenticity.
- 17 EDWARD IV. Original Ratification, on vellum, of the Treaty of Alliance between Edward IV and Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy, July 25, 1474, space for seal, note of enrolment, and note signed "Morton"
* * * The Duke was killed in battle 1477.
- 18 EDWARD IV. Letter s. in full, "Edouard R." 1 p. 4to, on paper, body of letter very slightly cut into on left hand side, but a perfect and remarkably fine signature, dated Aug. 7, 1480 (in French), to the Duke de Bourgogne, FINE AND RARE
* * * This must have been the Count de Nevers, nephew of Charles the Bold, and the only male representative of the House of Burgundy.
- 19 HENRY VII. Royal Sign Manual, "H. R." to an Order on paper, in the form of a letter, to Simon Stalworth, sub-dean of the Cathedral Church of Lincoln, requiring him to pay £20 towards the support of two armies by sea and by land for a war against Scotland, 1 p. folio, Westminster, 1st December (1496)

Most reverend and most illustrious brother.

Not having received for some time any communication from your Eminence, I was on the point of writing to you. Your letter has just reached me, and for it I beg leave to kiss your hands and to return you infinite thanks for the advice you have given to me. I pray you keep me in your mind, as your interest in all my affairs is greater than I could have hoped for. We have nothing of special importance to signify to you at this moment save that by the grace of God we have safely arrived at Fulgione, we feel that we are very far away from our friends. May I hope ever to have good news of your Eminence, to whom all the ladies about me desire their respectful remembrances, and in particular Signora Madonna Hadriana as your most devoted servant. I would also offer you an accumulation of my best thanks for the collar that you have honoured me by sending, inasmuch as it is not only exceedingly lovely, but happened to arrive at a most opportune and necessary moment. I remain with the greatest obligations to your Eminence, to whom I once more recommend myself,

Your most obedient sister and servant,

LUCRETIA D'ESTE DE BORGIA.

L. s. 1 p. folio, Lyon, 8 April, 1580 (in Italian), to the Nuncio Dandini on the suppression of a book by Francesco Pucci, with seal of the Jesuits; A. L. s. 1½ pp. folio, Rome, 4 April, 1581, to the same, a most important letter, with fragment from Carleton's "Thankfull Remembrance," relating to Crichton's papers (2)
- * * He writes to Dandini knowing the interest he takes in the condition of his poor country of Scotland. Things are now in the hands of the agents appointed by the French King and the Archbishop of Glasgow. The writer is aware how much large sums of money have been misused, both in France and elsewhere. The Queen is still in Prison, Lord Lennox has much to do to protect the King against the Jesuits, and everything depends upon the Archbishop of Glasgow. He greatly fears the young King will have many troubles, and will require aid in the reforms and in the administration, and hopes to bring these countries "back to the Apostolic Faith" as formerly.
- 72 MARGUERITE DE VALOIS (Queen, wife of Henry IV), an extremely fine and rare A. L. s. (with monogram), 1 full p. folio, undated, but circa 1580, to her husband the King, commencing :
- Monsieur, puis que ma maladie sopignature contre lextreme dessir que jai davoit lhonneur de vous voir je recherche pour le moins se contantement de vous escrire partout les commodites que jen pour trouver niant felicite prince de lheur de votre presance que selle de resevoir de vos nouvelles et de vous temongner la treshunible affection que jai vouee a votre servise.

- * * It was these German Lansquenets who, at the Battle of Ivry, received no quarter. See Macaulay's "Battle of Ivry."

- 75 ALENCON (François Duc d') AN EXTREMELY FINE AND INTERESTING Holograph Letter, s. 2 pp. folio, Richmond, 8 November (1581), to his brother, Henry III of France, asking him to send "en toute extresme diliganse" 50,000 crowns to enable him to prosecute his suit with the Queen of England.
- * * * "D'Alençon had come to England at last without the knowledge of his brother the King of France and against his wish, and the King must have been somewhat annoyed at receiving this peremptory request for 50,000 crowns. However, as on the 22nd of November Elizabeth kissed Alençon, put a ring on his finger, and had the betrothal or prospective marriage everywhere proclaimed, and as matters had been going on very swimmingly all this time, it seems probable that Henry may have thought it politic to tip his brother in order to help his suit."—Note by Mr. Hodgkin.
- 76 HENRY IV (King of France) The Oath of Henry IV and the Huguenots at the Assembly at Montauban, May 24, 1581, folio. One of the Thirty-four Original Documents each of which was signed by the King and all the Deputies

In wch consideracon wee have sent fourth againe or fleetes to ye coaste of Spayne (though to or very greate charge) to interrupt theire malicious attempts, and are resolved to reinforce or army in Ireland wth some good numbers, etc.

- 99 ARMY, ETC. Interesting Warrants by Sir George More (of Loseley), relating to the equipment of the early dragoons, c. 1605 :

.... The armes of a hargobuzier or dragon, which hath succeeded in the place of light horsemen, and are indeed of singular use almost in all actions of Warre. The armes are a good hargobus or dragon fitted with an iron worke, to be carried in a belte with a flaske, priming box, key and bullett bagg, and open heade-peecie with a cheeke, a good buffe coate with deepe skirtts, sword, girdle and hangers, a saddle, bridle, bitt, petrell, cropper with strappes for his sacke of necessaries, and a horse of lesse price than a cuirassier.

also Two other Documents relating to Books of Entry of ships trading to the Port of London, August, 1602, and to the collection of Subsidies, the latter signed by Buckhurst (3)

- 100 ELIZABETH (Queen) Manuscript Directions, 3½ pp. folio, in the name of Whitgift, Archbishop of Canterbury, to the preacher in a church (unnamed) to signify to his Parishioners the behaviour of her late Majesty on her death bed, with a full account of her conversation and spiritual condition, and remarks on the undisputed succession of James I, 28 March, 1603

* * * There is no copy of this most interesting document in the British Museum or in Calendar of State Papers, and it is apparently unique.

- 101 BUCKHURST (T. Sackville, Lord) afterwards Earl of Dorset, Lord Treasurer, A. L. s. 1 p. folio, May 18, 1603, to Sir Thomas Knyvet, Warden of the Mint, respecting the first Coinage of James I :

This morning I am certified from the Court that the King calls upon the speedy dispatche for coinage of mony. And for that I have refred the same wholy to the care . . . of Dobleday, I myself having told him my opinion in all thinges as far furth as I can conceave to be fit therein, etc.

- 102 JAMES I (King) Royal Sign Manual to an important Document on vellum, large folio, Sept. 27, 1603. Warrant to the Great Wardrobe for sundry Parcels of Stuff and Workmanship done and delivered out of the same Office until the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel

* * * Giving many curious and interesting details.

- 115 TOWER OF LONDON. Original Contract, on vellum, for the feeding of the lions, lionesses, etc., in the Tower of London, May 4, 1611 ; Charges for the Reception of Ambassadors, by Sir Lewis Lewkenor, Master of Ceremonies to James I, 1612 ; and another (3)
- 116 HENRY (Prince of Wales) Son of James I, Tabular Statement, on vellum, of the Yearlie Receipts and Disbursements of Prince Henry's Revenue, amounting in all to 51,298*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, with two marginal notes in the beautiful handwriting of the Prince, 16 May, 1612, portraits by Passe
- 117 MEDICI (Marie de) Wife of Henry IV, L. sub. and s. "Vre. bonne cousine, Marie," 2 pp. folio, 31 July, 1612, to her Minister, Le Duc d'Espernon
- 118 EDMONDES (Sir Thomas) Ambassador of James I at Paris, Correspondence between the Ambassadors of the English and French Courts relating to the proposed treaties of marriage between Christine, second daughter of Henry IV of France, and Prince Henry of England, and immediately after his death between the same princess and his brother Charles
- * * Seventeen papers, a few of which are defective, consisting of two A. L. s. July 8, 1611, and June 20, 1612, from J. Woodford, secretary to Edmondes, in connection with the proposed marriage between Christine and Prince Henry ; Draft (1612) of the Treaty of Marriage between Madame Christine and Prince Henry, with endorsement ; Series of eight Letters, Jan. 8, 161 $\frac{1}{2}$ to Nov. 12, 1613, in connection with the negotiations for a proposed marriage of the same Princess to Prince Charles, his brother Henry having died Nov. 12, 1612 ; and other papers (17)
- 119 CORNWALLIS (Sir Charles) A most interesting L. s. 4 pp. folio, 22 June, 1614, addressed to K. James I, containing a respectful but very vigorous protest against the proposed marriage of the Prince of Wales to a Popish Princess, and against the admission of so many Scots to this country. Cornwallis was imprisoned in the Tower for a year as a consequence of his plain speaking. There is a discrepancy between the signature on this letter and that in lot 97 which is difficult to account for
Also Inventory of the Gifts presented to Elizabeth on her marriage to Frederick V ; Warrant s. by the Earl of Suffolk re a present of hawks, etc., to the King of Spain ; and another (4)

- 120 ETON COLLEGE. Original Accounts (5) of the School Expenses of Con O'Neill, son of Hugh O'Neill, the famous Earl of Tyrone, at Eton, 1615, '17, '18 and '19, probably the earliest Eton School bills extant. The accounts are very curious, by reason of the smallness of the charges for tuition in comparison with the other expenses. The fee for tuition seems to have been uniformly £1 per term. The diet for the boy was normally about £3 11s. 6d. and £3 6s. for his attendant. The Ostess (? bedmaker) had £1 16s. 8d. Stationery and books were cheap enough. Paper, 8d., "inke, quills & sweeping y^e schole," 4^d or 6^d in a term. Books in one term, "Deus et Rex," 6^d, in another, "Epistolae per Sturmium," 4^d, in another none. With A. L. s. of R. Willis to J. Bingley, Esq., concerning Con O'Neill, 1615 ; MS. Petition of Bryan and Con O'Neill, sons of Sir Henry O'Neill, in reference to sureties, 1609 ; and MS. Directions for taking Bonds for £2000 from Bryan and Con O'Neill (8)

- 123 HORSE RACING. A very interesting A. L. s. 1 p. folio, from Henry, Lord Clifford, afterwards Earl of Cumberland, to Sir Thomas Fairfax, Londesborough, 7 February, 1619, containing probably the earliest mention of horse racing for a cup :

.... Sir I am apointed by the gentlemen of these partes to be a generall begger of gould towards the raysinge of a stocke, which may yearly render us a peece of plate to be run for heere at Piplingoates (Kiplingcotes). I am assured your contribution of five Jacobuses will invite many, who will otherwise aledge they keepe noe runninge horses, with a number of noblemen and gentlemen that have allredy given ; for on my conscience you doe perfectly hate that sporte and hould it a sinn in me to love it ; etc.

 tinuing the war, with seal:
 Sr William Temple, I see plainly by the discourses you have had with my nephew since his comming from the army, that he has a minde to continue the warr, wch I am sorry for; because I feare as it is conducted he will not finde his account in it, and I assure you one of my greate motifs for the peace is, that I beleeve he will be the better for it; but since I have others likewise of my owne, concerning my honour as well as interest, I would have you promote it by all meanes you can. It hath ever been my endeavour, and it is still so to oblige france to declare it selfe upon what termes they will be content to make the peace, but if they will not, it must take the formes the congresse at Nimeguen will give it, and if that cannot bring it to passe I will have at least the satisfaction within myselfe to have done what I could towards it, according to the figure I have taken of being the common mediator. I am glad to understand from you, that my nephew aquiesces in the opinion that he must learne from me the time of his comming over into england, which is not yett proper for it, etc.

- 334 DANBY (Thomas Osborne, Earl of) Lord Treasurer, a remarkable Series of Twenty-nine Letters and Documents, chiefly relating to the secret negotiations carried on by him and the English Ambassador in Paris (Hon. Ralph Montagu), INCLUDING THE ORIGINAL DRAFTS BY DANBY OF THE TWO FAMOUS LETTERS, dated 17 Jan. 1677-8, and 25 March, 1678, both signed and approved by the king, which formed the basis on which Danby was impeached

* * This is the correspondence referred to in the Life of Danby (see Dict. Nat. Biog. V. XLII, p. 303), "Some valuable autograph documents dealing with Danby's negotiations with Montagu, belong to Mr. J. Eliot Hodgkin, F.S.A., of Childwall, Richmond." It is difficult to exaggerate the historical value of these records. Notes of three of the letters are given, but those written by Danby while a prisoner in the Tower are also extremely interesting. The collection is supplemented with several printed pieces. (1) The first of the two letters, Jan. 17, 1677, the original holograph draft of Lord Danby's letter to Ralph Montagu, English Ambassador in Paris, signed by Charles II, endorsed in Danby's hand "Coppy of my Letter to Mr. Montague 17 Jany. 1677," and later on, in Danby's senile hand, "Of great importance and was signed by the Kinge himselfe and is coppied false in Kennetts History of Ch. 2d"; at the bottom of the letter, in the handwriting of Charles II, "I aproove of this letter, C. R." (2) Holograph Letter, March 5, 1677, from the Prince of Orange (afterwards William III), in French, to Lord Danby, giving him warning of the designs of France:

.... At least I trust that now no one will doubt that France has always played you false, and that it is not one town more or less that has prevented peace, for they never intended making it, only they were obliged to have something to mask their designs. I confess that their last trick surpasses all that has gone before, in sending M. de Ruvigny while, at the same time, they were marching to carry out their schemes. The state of affairs here is such that the conditions will be less favourable even than M. de Godolphin's propositions, but peace is now out of the question, all that can be done is to

(3) The second of the two letters, March 25, 167 $\frac{1}{2}$ , on which Lord Danby was impeached, the Original Draft of Lord Danby's letter to Montagu, at the end of which are the words in the handwriting of the king, "I aproove of this letter, C. R." endorsed many years afterwards by Danby in a senile and very tremulous hand "This is the letter on w^{ch} I was impeached and w^{ch} was signed by the King himself for my justification before I would write itt." This and other letters have many passages deleted and cunningly altered by Danby himself before publishing them in his Copies and Extracts of Some Letters (1710) :

. . . . In case the conditions of the peace shall be accepted, the King expects to have six millions of livres a yeare for three years from the time that this agreement shall be signed betwixt his Matie & the Kg. of France, because itt will probably bee two or three years before the Parliam^t will bee in humour to give him any supplys after the making of any peace wth France, and the Embassador here has alwaies agreed to that sume, but not for so long time. If you find the peace will not bee accepted, you are not to mention the money att all, and all possible care must bee taken to have this whole negotiation as private as possible, for feare of giving offence at home, where for the most part wee heare in ten days after of any thing that is communicated to the French ministers. I must againe repeate to you, that whatever you write upon this subject to the Secretary (to whom you must not mention a syllable of the money), you must say only as a thing you believe they would consent to, if you had power formally to make those propositions. Pray informe your selfe to the bottom of what is to be expected from France, and assure them that you believe this will bee the last time that (words deleted) you shall receive any propositions of a peace, if these be rejected ; etc.

... I call God to witnessse that except my not paying my duty to your Highnesse when I was last out of England, I cannot accuse myselfe of anything disrespectfull or undutifull towards you, & whatever I may have to say for myselfe for that very great fault, I doe most humbly aske your pardon for it & will doe so for ye others too, if your Highnesse shall condemne me, whenever you have heard me, & I doe most humbly beseech you, that since I would every day of my life do anything to serve you, I may not have the mortification to see how little you value it. I have written to her Royall Highnesse the Princesse upon this subject & tho' I have had occasion to write on one account more particularly to her than is possible for me to offer to your Highnesse, yett I humbly desire you to believe I looke upon your interests as one & your Highnesse may be confident I will be honest, just & dutifull to you both, etc.

Also A. L. s. from T. Herbert, Earl of Pembroke (1656-1733), to W. Blathwayt, Sept. 12, 1688, saying "we shall thinke noething a hardshippe that is for the King's service."—L. sub. and s. by the Earl of Sunderland to Lord Aston, Oct. 2, 1688, on preparations for the defence of the Country against the rumoured invasion by William ; and an interesting A. L. s. from Peter Shakerley to W. Blathwayt Oct. 6, 1688, also in reference to the Revolution (4)

- 371 REVOLUTION OF 1688 : A long and extremely interesting A. L. s. 3 pp. folio, from Francis Viscount Radclyffe to the Earl of Derwentwater, 23 October, 1688 :

... What has happened of greatest moment since my last to your Lordship, is the Great Councell which the King made to be held yesterday morning, to which by letter he summoned all the Lords and Bishops that were in toun, and when they were mett, my Lord, He told them in a very excellent speech that, though he did not believe that anyone there could doubt of the Prince's being truly his and the Queen's son, yet since the malice and wickedness of his enemies endeavoured to make the world suspect foul play in that matter, he thought himself obliged lest any of his subjects might be seduced by such pretences, to condescend so far as to lay before them unquestionable proofes of the Prince's birth.... It is hoped, my Lord, that the Dutch fleet may have suffered very much of the storm that was on Saturday last.... Most people here, my Lord, are of opinion that when they land they will immediately entrench very strongly, and then send the King proposalls of peace as he can not in honor or conscience accept of.... Here are many yet, my Lord, that will not believe they design to come, and some are roguish enough to say that they suspect it is only a trick of the King's to raise a greater army, and to call the French and Irish in upon them, etc.

Also three Letters from Sir Peter Wyche, mentioning the Prince of Orange's Declaration of Oct. 10 and his coming to England, Nov. 1st, 1688, etc., a most interesting Letter referring to the false intelligence of the advance of the Irish on London, "The Irish Night of Dec. 12"; and others (8)

- 372 JAMES II. L. s. possession of Sir R. Southwell, Secretary for Ireland. Among the more interesting items may be noted :

(1) A. L. s. June 23, 1688, from Matthew Bridges to the Duke of Tyrconnel, mentioning an interview which he had had with James II, in which the Sovereign expressed his satisfaction at the general joy which the Duke and the whole Kingdom had received upon the happy news of the Prince's birth. (2) L. s. April 5, 1689, from James II to the Duke of Tyrconnel (his Viceroy in Ireland), with sign-manual of James and countersigned by Melfort, giving orders for the distribution of the officers who had come over from France in the various regiments of the English Army. (3) Six A. L. s. dated from Cork, March and May, 1690, from the Count d'Avaux to the Duke of Tyrconnel, informing him that the French Fleet is at sea with 7,500 men on board, but that very little has been done towards getting ready the Irish troops who were to be sent to France as part of the bargain with the French King, and announcing the arrival of the French Fleet. (4) Draft of a Letter, April 13, 1690, written by the Duke of Tyrconnel to Barillon on the subject of resistance to William III's impending invasion of Ireland. (5) A most interesting A. L. s., May 29, 1690, from J. Porter to the Duke of Tyrconnel, on the state of England and the dislike felt in that country for the Usurper, and promising a fleet of twenty frigates ; and another, dated June 29, 1690, in which he states that he has had great difficulty in procuring arms but has sent the full number of swords and pistols. (6) A Letter, June 10, 1690, from the Earl of Limerick to the Duke of Tyrconnel, on matters connected with the sending of supplies to Limerick, etc.

THIRD DAY'S SALE.

A LARGE COLLECTION OF LETTERS AND PAPERS RELATING TO THE PRETENDERS AND THEIR ADHERENTS.

LOT 380.

JAMES EDWARD STUART (The Old Pretender) Remarks upon the Birth of the pretended Prince of Wales, by the present Ld B—p of W——r, not taken notice of in other books on that subject. A most curious MS. of 13 pp. 4to, endorsed in the autograph of Thomas Burnet, son of Bishop Burnet, "Papers sent me from the Bp. of Worcester on my 'New Proofs,'" etc. :

.... From 76 to 87 we heard of nothing but mis-carriages, but then it was resolved that a child must be had.... About this time it was given out by the Popish priest of Chester that the Queen was with child of a son, and being asked how he knew it was a son, his answer was, because the King had pray'd to St. Winifred for a child and a son, and the Saint's rule was, to grant all that was asked or nothing, and therefore since it appeared that the Queen was with child, they might surely conclude it to be a son.... The Q—— being in bed, after comes Delabody the dry nurse, and kneeling down by her (as she herself deposeth) gave her some cloths for the Q——, in which cloths his Lordship thinks the child newly brought from Mrs. Gray's to have been, for soon after this, the child was brought of the bed, not naked, but in some loose cloths, etc.

The Pretences of the Prince of Wales examined and rejected, "in a Letter to a friend in the Country," MS. of 32 pp. 8vo.—Answer to the Depositions.... concerning the Birth of the Prince of Wales, printed, with curious plan, folio, 1689 (3)

381 CARYLL (John) Secretary to Mary of Modena, A. L. s. 1 p. 4to, Nov. 14, 1687, to Sir R. Bulstrode, a very interesting letter, bearing on the legitimacy of the Old Pretender, with seals:

.... We are in expectation that our hopes of Her Majestys being with child will shortly turne to a certainty, but till then it is much against her liking, that any reports should be spred of it.

James Edward was born 10 June, 1688. Miss Strickland gives

- 384 LOUIS DE FRANCE (Duc de Bourgogne) grandson of Louis XIV, A. L. s. 1 p. 4to, Camp de Soignies, 29 May, 1712, to "Milord" (probably a Jacobite nobleman), says that if the Duke of Marlborough wishes to fight, he is quite willing and will be delighted, and adds:

... Je suis seur aussi que le Chevalier de St. George ne me dedera pas et qu'il seroit ravi de voir les Anglais d'un peu pres ceux qui desistant demandent tous a le voir avant que de repasser en Angleterre, etc.

- 385 MAR (John Erskine, Earl of) Leader of the 1715 Rebellion, A. L. s. 2½ pp. 4to, London, Jan. 20th, 1715, to Mr. Maule of Kellie, promising to further a suit:

... I spoke to the Duke of Argyll of it as soon as I had yours, & he is of oppinion that it is not yet a fitt time to move in it, etc.

- 386 MARY OF MODENA (Queen of James II) A. L. s. (initials), 2½ pp. 4to, Chaillot, ce 22^{me} Octob. 1712, to a person unknown ; a very interesting letter, in French, written under great affliction for the loss of his daughter Louisa Mary, who died Aug. 15, 1712, with portrait
- 387 [JAMES EDWARD] A. L. s. "Sheldon," 2 pp. 4to, in French, speaking of the elections in England, and of the pretended conversion of the Chevalier, Sept. 26 (c. 1713).—Letter from W. Lowndes to the Duke of Ormonde, Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, referring to "recruits raised for the Pretender passing through Dover for France," Mar. 20, 1713 ¼.—News Letter, in Italian, Amsterdam, 11 Maggio, 1714, speaking of Q. Anne examining "Li dritti di suo fratello alla Corona" (3)
- 388 JAMES EDWARD. Holograph Letter (unsigned), 2 pp. 4to, Barr ce 3 Avril, 1714, to the Princess de Vaudemont ; interesting letter, speaks of his health and his efforts to overcome his lowness of spirits :
 . . . les miennes augmentent tout(sic) les jours mais le bon Dieu me soutient, sans qui nous ne pourrons rien et nous serons bien tost accablé, etc.
- 389 JAMES EDWARD. L. s. "Jacques R." 1 p. 4to, Plombières, ce 19 May, 1714, to the same, asking for news, etc. :
 . . . Ce sera une consolation pour mois dans cet envoiant séjour en attendant le plaisir de m'en dedomager par les chasses et les musiques de commercy, etc.
- 390 JAMES EDWARD. Contemporary Copy of a Letter from the Chevalier to the Bishop of Edinburgh, May 26, 1714.—Contemporary MS. Copies of a Declaration of James III, given forth at Plombières, 29 August, and probably issued as a broadside as well.—Copy of another Letter from the Chevalier to a person unknown : (4)
 You are to acquaint my friends in Scotland of the great sense I have of their constant loyalty and zeal. The mortification it is to me to have been debarred going to them at a tyme they wer so ready to receive me. As also the present impossibility of joining them, etc.
- 391 FISHER (Sir John) Emissary of James Edward, Memorandum in his autograph, 2½ pp. 4to, Oct. 20th, 1714, of instructions given him by James III, commencing :
 You are to acquaint my friends in Scotland that after I had sent you from this to St. Germain (on the 4th) on your way to them, and that I was making all possible preparations to follow in diligence myself (notwithstanding the dangers I saw before me), etc.
 Then follow instructions as to the best means of conveying money and arms, etc. Fisher thus concludes this very interesting memorandum :

This is the genuine sence of his Majesties instructions and intentions, but his nervous, expressive and succinct style is beyond my imitating.

JOHN FISHER.

- 392 JAMES EDWARD : L. s. (initials), 2½ pp. 4to, partly in cypher, Bar, ce 16 Juin, 1715, to the Prince de Vaudemont, seal and portrait :

... Le negociation 71, 48, 37, 48, 25, 80, 37, 73 n'est aboute a rien. On avoit sur cela jetté les yeux de coté de Pontoise, mais on y trouve encore des difficultés. Dieu sciat ou tout cela aboutera, etc.

- 393 JAMES EDWARD : A. L. s. (initials), 1 p. 4to, Communi, ce 29 Juin, 1715, to the same, with seal; interesting, mentions a letter from Madame de Maintenon, and continues :

... Dieu soit loué de la bonne santé du Roi et lui conserve longtemps; nous sommes a la veille de quelque grand denouement du costé de l'Angleterre mais le rideau n'est pas encore tiré, et vous jugiez aisément que mes pensees et ma main en sont assez occupés; rien n'est encor arresté (?) positivement, mais cela ne pourra tardir et le denouement arrivera peutestre plutot que je ne pense, etc.

On the 6th September (O.S.) the Earl of Mar erected the standard of the Stuarts at Braemar

- 394 REBELLION OF 1715 : Accompt of Ammunition given out of the Castle of Inverary for the use of the Militia of Argyle, 26 Sept. 1715.—Examination of Jacob Baker as to a conversation about the Old Pretender, Nov. 8, 1715.—Printed Summons, with six signatures and seals, to administer the Oaths of Allegiance, and for extinguishing the hopes of the Pretender, 16 Dec. 1715; and one other (4)

- 395 JAMES EDWARD : A. L. s. (initials), ½ p. 4to, Peterhead ce 22 Dec. 1715, to the Prince de Vaudemont. A most interesting letter, written immediately after his disembarkation in Scotland in his unfortunate expedition of 1715 :

Partages maintenant avec moy je vous prie le plaisir que j'ay de me trouver ches mois apres avoir si souvent scenti (?) mes peines. Tout respond a mes souhaits icy et avec du secours tout ira bien cy plait a Dieu. Je me porte a merveille et en tout estat egalement rempli d'amitie pour vous, J. R.

- 396 NAIRNE (Lord) A most interesting series of Letters, chiefly addressed to the Prince de Vaudemont between 1715 and 1718, detailing the movements of the Chevalier, etc. Writing on January 10th, he mentions the letter from Peterhead (see above) which he encloses, and adds: "Je souhaite que je puisse avoir bientot le plaisir de vous ecrire d'Ecosse et de vous mander quelque heureux

succés des armes de S. M." A letter dated June 25th, 1716, is accompanied by a printed piece, which Nairne states was written by the Chevalier himself, but which bears the title: "Lettre d'un Officier de l'Armée du Roy, ecrise a un des Amis a Londres après que l'Armée se fut retirée d'Aberdeen vers le Nord d'Escosse au mois de Fevrier 1716. Traduite de l'Anglois." On October 1st, 1716, Nairne announces that the Chevalier has undergone a surgical operation, which has relieved him of his recent malady (9)

- 397 JAMES EDWARD. A. L. s. "James R." 1½ pp. 4to, Scoon, Jan. 22, 1716, to the Earl of Panmure, who had entertained him at Brechin Castle on Jan. 9. A most important letter, and probably the last one he wrote from Scotland. Speaking of his intention to maintain toleration in religious matters, he writes:

... It is over the hearts of my subjects and not their consciences that I am desirous to reign, and if my moderation and all the assurances they have received on that head do not meet with suitable returns, it may be my misfortune, but can never be my fault. They may be now if they please a free and happy people, and I am in great hopes they will at length open their eyes and putt themselves an end to all their misfortunes. The enemy make all preparations for marching, and we are preparing to receive them, but how the weather will allow of any motion on either side I do not well understand, however in that particular wee are on equal terms, tho' not on others, but courage and zeal will I hope supply the want of numbers, etc. Only six days afterwards news reached him of Argyll's approach, an immediate flight northwards was undertaken, and the Chevalier made his escape from Scotland "through the back door which had been left open for him."

- 398 PERTH (James Drummond, Earl of) A. L. s. 3 pp. 4to, St. Germains, ce 9 de Juin [? 1716], to the Princess de Vaudemont

- 399 REBELLION OF 1715. A very interesting Account in the autograph of James Caulfield of the Trial of Richard Gascoyne in the year 1716.—Memorandum on the subject of the removal of the Earl of Bolingbroke from the Counsels of the Pretender, 1716.—L. s. James Wilson to L M (?Lord Mareschal) Paris, 29 August 1717, touching the dissension between George I and the Prince of Wales and rumours of a design to assassinate the Chevalier de St. George; and other interesting Jacobite papers (9)

- 400 NAIRNE (Lord) A series of six Letters, written as secretary to James Edward, 1718 to 1724, addressed to the Chevalier Carrara, who was evidently anxious to obtain autograph replies in answer to his

- complimentary epistles addressed to James III, but Nairne was too judicious to allow his master to be always thus bothered, although he personally wrote to him occasionally (6)
- 401 BERWICK (James, Duke of) A. L. s. 1 p. 4to, Bayonne, 4 fevr. 1719, to Monsieur Dandresel; L. s. 6½ pp. 4to, Bordeaux, 17 avril, 1719, to the same, an important political letter referring to the projected expedition against Scotland (2)
- 402 CLEMENTINA (Princess, wife of the Old Pretender) L. sub. and s. "Clementine R," Sept. 10, 1719, to the Prince de Vaudemont asking him to be present at her marriage to the Chevalier St. George, styled by her "King of Great Britau," portrait.—NAIRNE (Lord) A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, Montefiesconi, 20 Septembre, 1719, to the same, very interesting, respecting the Chevalier's marriage, to which he alludes as : . . . la belle union qui est entre leurs Majestés et par le courage et la force avec lesquelles elles ont surmonté enfin tous les obstacles qui en empêchoient l'accomplissement, marque assez visiblement que c'est l'œuvre de la Providence et un mariage fait au Ciel, etc.
- 403 JAMES EDWARD. L. sub. and s. 1 p. 4to, Rome, 24 Decembre, 1719, to the Chevalier Carrara thanking him for his zeal and affection ; also A. L. s. of Lord Nairne to the same, speaking of the "Kings" gratification (2)
- 404 DERWENTWATER (C. Radclyffe, titulary Earl of) Secretary to Prince Charles Edward, executed 1745, two Receipts s. 1720, portrait (2)
- 405 NAIRNE (Lord) Two A. L. s. 1721 and 1725, to the Chevalier Carrara, the latter announcing the birth of Henry Benedict afterwards Cardinal York ; Petition to the Bishop of Nantes s. by Dillon, Mar and Melfort, 1723, with seals and other Pretender Papers (5)
- 406 BALMERINO (John, 4th Lord) Jacobite. An extremely interesting secret A. L. s. "R. Lauder," 2 pp. 4to, to Mr. Gordon, April 1726, relating to the quarrels between the Old Pretender and his wife. The real names have been added by a later hand over the feigned ones of the original, seal with head of Charles I
- 407 GARDINER (Colonel James) Killed at Prestonpans, Auto. Certificate s. 13 June, 1728, in respect of the Earl of Stair's Regiment, portrait ; Series of eight Documents connected with the supply of arms to Scotland, 1727-1759 (9)

- 408 COPE (Sir John) Lieut.-General, defeated at Prestonpans, Certificate s. respecting ammunition, 13 June, 1730.—WADE (General) Orders for ammunition for the Garrison at Fort George, 28 June, 1729.—List of Tools required by General Wade for making the new Roads for communication in the Highlands, 1730.—A. L. s. of Lord Balcarres, 1730 ; and two others (6)
- 409 LOVAT (Simon Fraser, Lord) Jacobite. Very fine A. L. s. 3 pp. 4to, 24 Jan. 1730, to Lord Panmure, asking aid in a suit, and adding : I am truly much ashamed of the many troubles I give your Ldship, all I can say is that if I am Lord Lovat, it is to the Earl of Panmure and to his offspring I owe it and may the name of Fraser of my clan extinguish befor my family be ungrat to you, or yours, etc. With view of his execution and portion of ticket of admission to his trial.
- 410 JAMES EDWARD. L. sub. and s. 1 p. 4to, with holograph corrections, Rome, 1 September, 1734, to the Grand Master of Malta
- 411 JAMES EDWARD. A. L. (unsigned), 1 p. 4to, undated, to the Princess de Vaudemont, with royal seal, saying that he will arrive at Commercy the following Monday at midday
- 412 JAMES EDWARD. A most interesting and important series of Thirty-two Draft Letters written during the year 1734 at his dictation, in the handwriting of James Edgar, his secretary, with numerous corrections and alterations in the hand of the Old Pretender, including an important communication to Prince Charles Edward, then 14 years of age, who had been sent to serve under his uncle the Duke of Berwick :
- I have received, my dear Child, your two notes of the 28th and 31st Aug^t, and hope in answer to this you will show me that you have profited of my last letter, which I recommend you to read over now and then. Your last indisposition will, I hope, contribute to make you more temperate in your dyet, which I also earnestly recommend to you. When you take leave of the King of Naples, you will return him thanks in a proper manner for his goodness to you, etc.
- Other Letters of the Chevalier are addressed to Mr. Innes, on the subject of "Miracles;" Colonel O'Brien regarding intrigues with Walpole, Lord Inverness, the Duke of Ormonde, the Duke of Berwick, Lord Dunbar, Father Clerk, relating to the arrears in his pension, adding his own hand, "car je suis seur que ce n'est pas l'intention du Roy Catholique de me laisser dans l'estat ou me reduit le manquement de ces secours." In another letter he writes respecting the action of the Spanish Court, "The conduct of that Court towards me is really incomprehensible, but at least in the meantime their behaviour in relation to my son is both useful and satisfactory." Of his son he says :

I have the satisfaction to find that his (Charles Edward's) short campaigne has had a very good effect already where it has been talked of and it will I am persuaded do much good in England, where the news of it was already arrived and the English Government is I hear alarm'd at it.

- 413 HARDWICKE (Philip, First Earl of) Auto. notes, 2 pp. folio, on a Bill against corresponding with the sons of the Pretender.—Account of Silversmith's Work supplied to Simon Lord Lovat, 1740.—Appointment s. by the Earl of Lothian (fought at Culloden), etc. (4)
- 414 GARDINER (Colonel James) A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, Ghent ye 24th of Jany, 1743, to the Rev. P. Doddridge, who became the Colonel's biographer and who has marked and altered this letter, which is inspired by evident affection and regard for the recipient. Letters of this brave soldier are of the utmost rarity
- 415 REBELLION OF 1745. Contemporary MS. of 2 pp. large folio, endorsed "Copy Pretender's Declaration stuck up in every town the Rebels passed through in 1745," and commencing "His Majesties most Gracious Declaration," 23 December, 1743. This is a much longer document than the printed declaration of the same date
- 416 REBELLION OF 1745. A. L. s. from Archibald Hart to Mr. W. Innes, Edinb. 3 Sept. 1745, describing the alarm caused in Edinburgh that the young Chevalier was at Perth and fearing that when he draws a little nigher, the banks will retire to the castle.—Letter from J. Thomson, dated Fort George, 7 Sept. 1745, complaining that "the Rebels have robb'd our mails and destroyed all letters".—Letter from Capt. T. Shadwell, dated Bath, Sept. 8, 1745, to "Webb," sending his recruits from Bath and adding, "Publick affairs look extreamly black and this place a most remarkable disaffected one and abounding with Roman Catholicks"; and other interesting letters of that period (7)
- 417 ERSKINE (John) Owner of Prestonpans. A. L. s. 4 pp. 4to, 9 Sept. 1745. An extremely interesting Letter to the Rev. Charles Wesley in reference to the movements of Charles Edward and the King's Forces under Cope.—A. L. s. 2 pp. folio, 30 Sept. 1745, to the same. An intensely interesting letter on the Battle of Prestonpans and the death of Colonel Gardiner (2)

.... The victory gained by the Chevalier appears to have been compleat, and they say his Highlanders fought like enraged furies, and drove all down before them in less than $\frac{1}{2}$ of hour. General Cope got soon to the town of Lauder 10 or 12 miles thence, and over hills. The dragoons behaved abominably. Colonel Gardiner, finding he could not stop the flight of his regiment of dragoons put himself on foot at the head of the foot forces, and was so mortally wounded that he dyed. I hear the Chevalier visited him in his wounds, and spoke civilly to him: and I am told Gardiner said to him, “ You are come, Sir to seek a temporal crown, and I am going to get a crown of glory.” He was an honest, brave fellow, and I believe a real Christian, as for many years he professed to be, etc.

- 418 NEWCASTLE (Thomas Pelham Holles, Duke of) L. s. 3 pp. folio, 21 Sept. 1745, to Viscount Irwin :

.... We had last night a certain account of the Rebels having taken possession of Edinburgh, at the very time that Sir John Cope was landing with the King's Troops at Dunbar...—However as he will have been immediately joined by two Regiments of Dragoons, and will before this time, we conclude, have had the reinforcement of the Dutch Regiment, which had been seen off Tintmouth, on its way to join him, we are in the greatest hopes that he will have been strong enough effectually to prevent the further progress of the Rebels.

* * * On the very day this letter was written Cope had been defeated at Prestonpans, and was in full flight.

- 419 REBELLION OF 1745. A. L. s. from Robert Gardiner, brother of Colonel Gardiner, Nov. 7, 1745, giving a full and graphic account of the movements of the Rebel army at the moment when it was determined to cross the border into England.—A. L. s. from R. Shepherd, 7 Oct. 1745, describing the stagnation of business caused by the advent of the Young Pretender.—A. L. s. from A. Hart, on the arrival of the Pretender in Edinburgh.—Receipts for Military Stores for use in quelling the Rebellion; and other interesting Papers (10)

- 420 WHITNEY (Colonel S.) An important A. L. s. 26 Nov. 1745, to Lieut. Campbell, giving an account of the Battle of Prestonpans and advice for strategy in future actions.—A. L. s. from John Maule, describing the position of the Rebels, Dec. 19, 1745; and A. L. s. from Lady Irwin to the Earl of Morton, on events in the '45 (3)

- 421 REBELLION OF 1745. An extremely interesting A. L. s. (? complete) 2½ pp. 4to, from Alexander Home, on the behaviour of Kilmarnock and Balmerino at their execution on Tower Hill on Aug. 18, 1746
.... Balmerino behaved with amazing intrepidity, but it was out of nature and he had studied everything he did on the scaffold, the contrast between them held in every particular, most remarkably. I shall give you only one instance, when Kilmarnock was just stepping upon the scaffold, struck with the dreadfull apparatus and the acclamations of an inconceivable multitude, without the least consternation he turned to me and calmly said “ Home this is terrible." Balmerino, as I was assured in the same circumstances about a quarter of an hour later was content to say "Bless me what a crowd is here," etc.

This very letter must have been seen by Sir Walter Scott, who used it in his "Tales of a Grandfather"; also other interesting Letters relating to the proceedings at Carlisle, where 49 of the rebels were convicted of High Treason; etc. (6)

- 422 REBELLION OF 1745. Account of unserviceable Stores, broken, lost and made use of at the time of the Rebellion, Stirling, 1746.—A. L. s. of James Edgar, secretary of the Old Pretender, Aug. 1750; and other Papers (4)

I have sent you an authentick Copy of my Comition of Regent and a full power for you to Receive any money that zealous people may offer for my Cervice but you are not to make use of this power, or show my Comition untill you have further Orders from me, recommending to you an absolute secrecy from every mortal without exception. Byrne to the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, relating to the critical state of affairs and the collecting of money to support the Pretender by the Popish Primate of Armagh, Dundalk, 21 April, 1756; and other Papers (4)

- 425 CHARLES EDWARD (Prince) A. L. s. (with initials) 1 full p. 4to, 25 Juin, 1760, to Mr. Joseph Thompson, "chez la Veuve de Dormer, à Anvers en Flandre," on the sending of money

- 426 MARESCHAL (George Keith, Earl) Jacobite and favourite of Frederick the Great, A. L. s. (initial) 1½ pp. 4to, 1 Feb. 1763, curious letter, respecting Ematulla, a Turkish lady.—Two A. L. s. from Major Thomas Ogle, 1761.—A. L. s. from Alexander Hay, 1762, in which he claims to have saved the life of the Duke of Cumberland during the '45; etc. (6)

- 427 WALKINSHAW (Clementine) mistress of Charles Edward, a very interesting and pathetic A. L. s. 3 pp. 4to, 25 Juillet, 1767, in French, written from the Convent of Notre Dame at Meaux, to the Young Pretender, protesting the steadiness of the writer's attachment, with portrait:

As the unhappy mother of your child I present my most humble homage... All the steps I have taken have been with the best intention and to your interest; your ideas do her [your child] the greatest injustice. You must recall the persecution which I have undergone for you which has given you misery as well as me. For what do you blame me? Since the moment when I left you I have been in solitude, and my only occupation has been to educate your child and make her worthy of your Majesty. If you saw her you would be content, for she has a noble and agreeable presence. Lastly, Sire, it is impossible for you to abandon this child. You have too much love for her to allow her to sink. Even if I have done wrong are not the rights of your child sacred before God and before men, etc.

- 428 WALKINSHAW (Clementine) A. L. s. (under her assumed name of Countess Dalberstroff) 3½ pp. 4to, in French, Meaux, 16 Dec. 1768, to an unknown correspondent, whom she desired to influence on her behalf in relation to the neglect of her royal lover:

.... I beg to thank you for all the trouble you have taken for me in interceding with his Royal Highness on my behalf. His refusal has placed me in a very embarrassing position, as I cannot quit the capital as a bankrupt... I see with infinite sorrow the frightful prejudices which his Royal Highness has against me, but my innocence justifies me, etc.

- 429 WALKINSHAW (Charlotte) natural daughter of the Young Pretender, A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, in French, 25 Juillet, 1767, to her father; an affectionate letter, begging him to write to her:

.... si votre Majesté ne daigne rapeler quelques fois dans son souvenir cette pouponne (her pet name) qui lui fut si chère des le moment de sa naissance, son âge et l'éducation quelle a reçue ne font que fortifier en elle les sentiments d'amour et de respect quelle doit à son Royal et à son auguste père, etc.

- 481 ORMONDE (James Butler, second Duke of). A most important Collection of One Hundred and Twenty-three Autograph Letters and Documents relating to the Wars in the Low Countries and especially the Campaign of 1712, when Ormonde being "embarrassed by the now notorious Restraining Orders" was unable to afford aid to the Allies when they were eager for action that would have been decisive, and by their betrayal placed himself and his Country in a humiliating and ignominious position

Among the more important pieces in this remarkable collection may be mentioned the following, but there are many others of the highest historical significance :—

Instructions in the Autograph of Henry St. John (afterwards Lord Bolingbroke) to the Duke of Ormonde as Captain General of the English Forces in the Low Countries, April 7/18, 1712, in which he is to express to the Pensionary the resolution of the English Government to push the war with all possible vigour

Letter from the Duke of Ormonde, Hague, 26 April, 1712, to R. Harley Earl of Oxford :

.... The next morning, I went to visite the Pensionary who received me with great civility and professions of friendeshipe, and told me that the states relied on her Majesty, and were sure that she would not consent to any peace but what was safe and honourable for her allies, etc.

Letter from the same, Camp at Marchienne, May 25 (N.S.), 1712, to Mr. Secretary St. John :

I received last night the honour of yours of the 10th, with her Majesty's commands to me not to engage in a battle, or to undertake any seige, untill I receive her Majesty's further orders, which I shall obey, as 'tis my duty, and will keep secret my having received any such commands and will endeavour to hinder its being suspected of receiving any such orders, tho' it will be very difficult for me considering the situation we are now in. Prince Eugene and the States deputys, as I mentioned in my last, proposed the attacking the enemy or the besieging of Quesnoy, but now (are) very pressing for the besieging of Quesnoy if the engaging the enemy be found too difficult. These circumstances makes (sic) it very difficult for me to disguise the true reason of my opposing all proposals that shall be made me for undertaking any thing, having no excuse for delays, all the troops we expect and the heavy cannon being to be here on Saturday next. I shall do all that is possible for me to hinder the true reason to be guessed, etc.

Letter, June 29, 1712, from Robinson, Bishop of Bristol, to the Duke of Ormonde, describing the well-grounded discontent of the Ministers of the United Provinces at the attitude of the Queen of England, and their curiosity to know what was to be their lot

Earlier Papers deal with the War of the Spanish Succession, others with the Treaty of Utrecht, Copy of the Articles of Impeachment of the Duke of Ormonde, 1715, etc. ; with various Printed Pieces, etc., in a portfolio

- 505 [HAMILTON (Emma, Lady)] An important and most interesting A. L. s. from Mary Dickenson, 5 pp. folio, Taxal, Chapel-le-Frith, Derbyshire, 16 Nov. 1789, to her uncle, Sir William Hamilton, recommending him to marry "his beautiful Emma," afterwards Lady Hamilton :
 . . . I am interested in favor of your beautiful Emma, and wish to be informed whether she continues as worthy of your regard and esteem, as of your admiration. If she does, I should be tempted to wish an indissoluble bond might unite and secure her to you for ever ; you have had sufficient time to find out whether she is really deserving of such a proof of your affection, and I can see no reason why, in the present stage of your life, you have not a right to follow the dictates of your own inclinations, proceeding from honourable motives, without being answerable to the opinions of others, etc.
- A. L. s. (initials), 3 pp. folio, from Sir W. Hamilton, Naples, Decr. 14th, 1790, to his nephew, Charles Greville, referring to Emma :
 . . . The Legges are here, he has been ill, she is better, you may be sure I will never neglect them—but I cannot make this place as agreeable to Mrs. Legge as I cou'd wish as she is shy of Emma, who pretends to nothing, but by making herself agreeable she has the best company male and female and of the first nobility at our house. I will steer as well as I can, I foresaw these difficulties as you know, however Emma really deserves attention for her excellent behaviour.
- On the 6th September of the following year they were married at Marylebone Church. (2)

- 509 MALONE (Edward) Shakespearian Critic, A. L. s. 1½ pp. 4to, Dec. 31, 1795, to T. Astle, a most interesting letter in reference to the Ireland Forgeries :

I am at this moment very busily employed in writing an Essay to prove the late pretended MSS. of Shakespeare, etc. to be neither more nor less than absolute forgeries. For this purpose, I shall reproduce a facsimile of Lord Southampton’s handwriting in the time of James the First to which a pretended Letter of that Nobleman, given in the publication above mentioned, has not the slightest resemblance. But I wish also to give some specimens of his handwriting in the time of Elizabeth, etc.

- 510 HAMILTON (Sir William) Diplomatist, A. L. s. 7 pp. 4to, Naples, Oct. 25, 1796, to his niece Lady Mansfield, fine letter in reference to his marriage with Emma Hart :

As yet I have had no reason to repent of a step which I took contrary to the approbation of the world, and without which, my house, instead of being the most sociable at Naples, woud have been abandon'd and the Owner of it moping in an Armchair. Your Ladyship must have heard from some of the English Ladies returned from their Travels that it was not beauty alone that decided me to marry. All that I can assure you is that in this country nobody stands higher in public esteem than Lady Hamilton, and the friendship the Queen of Naples has for her is conspicuous . . . The marrying Emma was my own business. I knew what I was doing, for as you know I had lived with her five years before I married, and it is now five more since we married, and I do not repent. Look round your circle of prudent and assorted matches in the great World and see how few turn out so well as our seemingly imprudent one, etc.

Also an extremely interesting A. L. s. 5 pp. 4to, Casuta, Novr. 6th, 1798, to his nephew, respecting the British Fleet in the Mediterranean ; and two original Prospectuses of Dr. Graham's "Temple of Health," in which Emma Hart is said to have posed, portrait ; etc.

very excess of the passion, but with God's Blessing we shall soon meet again. Kiss dear, dear Horatia a thousand times for me, I write this letter and I fear I shall too soon have an opportunity of sending it, for we are standing near Weymouth, the place of all others I should wish to avoid, but if it continues mod'te I hope to escape without anchoring, but should I be forced I shall act as a man and your Nelson, neither courting or ashamed to hold up my head before the greatest Monarch in the World. I have, thank God, nothing to be ashamed of.

I have wrote a line to the Duke, he will show it you, and I shall do it occasionally. I prepare this to be ready in case opportunity offers, and I am working very hard with Mr. Scott. If you see Sir Will'n Scott say how very sorry I am not to have seen him but it was impossible. May God bless you my own Emma and believe me ever most faithfully yours.

* * * This intensely interesting letter is not included in the Collection of Lord Nelson's letters to Lady Hamilton published in 1814. But Nelson says in a letter written off Plymouth the next day, which he carried to sea with him, "I sent my own dearest Emma, a letter for you last night in a Torbay boat, and gave the man a guinea to put it in the Post Office." The above is evidently the letter referred to.—Note by Mr. Hodgkin.

535 D'ÉON · DE BEAUMONT (CHARLES), the Chevalier D'Éon. A TRULY REMARKABLE COLLECTION OF MANUSCRIPTS, AUTOGRAPH LETTERS AND DOCUMENTS, ENGRAVINGS, DRAWINGS, PRINTED BOOKS, ETC. ILLUSTRATING THE DOUBLE CAREER OF THIS EXTRAORDINARY INDIVIDUAL, who alternately posed as a man and a woman

* * The collection was gathered from various sources, and formed one of Mr. J. E. Hodgkin's favourite hobbies. The greater portion of the very important Manuscripts (comprising some 3500 pp.) came at first hand from the representative of a family, to the head of which they passed at D'Éon's death, and in whose possession they had since remained undisturbed. It comprises about 62 vol. and tie cases of manuscripts, a wooden box of MSS. and Documents, covered with brown paper, from the Chevalier's own collection, a large mahogany box case containing important Documents, Portraits, Drawings, etc. and thirteen Printed Books and Pamphlets, dealing chiefly with the life of the Chevalier, some very rare. It is only possible to indicate a few of the more important items of the collection ; a careful examination of the voluminous papers (chiefly in D'Éon's own hand) would no doubt throw much fresh light on this subject of never ceasing interest. Voluminous papers in D'Éon's handwriting, written at a late period of his life, asserting that though a girl and dressed as such till 1734, she was after that date brought up as a boy, greatly to her own regret. The original Passports given to D'Éon during his journey to and from St. Petersburg. The original Order (1761) written on the field of Battle of Hoxtes, addressed to the Count de Guerchy, and sent by the hand of D'Éon, to remove 400,000 cartridges under the fire of the enemy. This order was not obeyed by de Guerchy, but was carried out by D'Éon, a circumstance which engendered the bitter animosity of de Guerchy; D'Éon's Commission (1763) as Lieutenant of Dragoons, s. by Louis XV; Passport s. by Louis XV, granted to D'Éon when going to London in 1763, as secretary to the Duc de Nivernois; D'Éon's counterpart on vellum of the original "Transaction," Aug. 25, 1775, between Caron de Beaumarchais and the Chevalier or Chevalière D'Éon, in which, describing herself as a spinster, she declares that her sex has been unequivocally declared to be feminine, and agrees henceforth till her death always to wear female attire; also the original Draft in the holograph of Beaumarchais, with extraordinary emendations in D'Éon's handwriting. This document is complemented by a copy certified by Beaumarchais of the commission given him by Louis XVI to treat with D'Éon for the return of certain secret documents. A remarkable Series of Original Letters (1775-76) from Caron de Beaumarchais to the Chevalière D'Éon on the subject of the "Transaction," etc. and an extraordinary one in which he addresses her in loving terms (Beaumarchais seems to have had at this date no doubt as to D'Éon's sex, and it was currently reported in Paris that he intended to marry her). Several A. L. s. from John Wilkes to La Chevalière, and one from Warren Hastings to the same; a thick volume in D'Éon's handwriting, labelled "Journal du Chevalier D'Éon en Angleterre pour sa dépense courant depuis 1766, jusqu'au 13 aout, 1777, plus Journal de dépense courante depuis le 13 aout 1777, jusqu'au mois de mars, 1793"; having inside the front cover his large ex-libris, and inside the back cover the smaller one of Mademoiselle la Chevalière D'Éon. On Jan. 18, 1769, occurs the entry "pour ma reception au 3^e Grade de maçon dans la loge de l'immortalité, £4 7s. 0d."; on Jan. 5, 1773, "Bassin à Barbe 1s. 3d." but on Nov. 4, 1776, a purchase of female dress sent from Paris of taffetas noir, etc., amounting to 1009 livres. A thick volume of accounts in D'Éon's holograph, while in London, from 1807, almost to the time of his death, which took place May 21, 1810. Among the final entries is "Du Sunday, March 4, 1810, du Monday, 5, et jour suivant je suis tombé la nuit comme morte sur le planche... Mon dieu me suffet car en lui nous avons le père, le fils, la vie éternelle, que pouvons nous avoir de plus?" The Portraits comprise some of the very rarest engravings, showing the Chevalier, both in male and female costume, e.g. stipple engraving (1753) of the Chevalière D'Éon as a woman, Cross of St. Louis on left breast, after Angelica Kauffman; Mezzotint of the Chevalière D'Éon (1771) as a female freemason, on a table is a scroll inscribed: "A Policy 25 per cent. on the Chev. D'Éon man or woman"; Two line engravings (1763) by Bradel, of the Chevalière in low dress, one beautifully coloured; Water-colour Drawing representing D'Éon as a good-looking man in military costume, probably executed in 1763, as it shows the star of St. Louis given him in that year; Proof portrait in mezzotint (1771) of D'Éon, with hair dressed in macaroni fashion; other portraits show him fencing, on horseback, etc.; also several fine water-colour drawings from the Chevalier's own collection.
